NTAC is a consortium for the provision of technical assistance to families and agencies serving children and young adults who are deaf-blind. The primary mission of NTAC is a) to assist states in improving the quality of services for individuals (birth to age 22) who are deaf-blind; and b) to increase the numbers of children, young adults, their families, and their service providers who will benefit from these services. NTAC combines the resources, expertise and experience of two major organizations: Teaching Research and Helen Keller National Center. NTAC will work with agencies and families within the states through the provision of technical assistance. States served by this region are: CT, ME, MA, NH, NJ, NY, RI, VT, DE, District of Columbia, MD, PA, VA, WV.

The Technical Assistance Alliance for Parent Centers is an innovative project that supports a unified technical assistance system for the purpose of developing, assisting and coordinating Parent Training and Information Projects and Community Parent Resource Centers under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). This project is funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs and consists of 1 national center and 6 regional centers. The project is funded to strengthen the connections to the larger technical assistance network and fortify partnerships between parent centers and state education systems at regional and national levels.

Parent Training and Information Centers (PTIs) and Community Parent Resource Centers (CPRCs) in each state provide training and information to parents of infants, toddlers, children, and youth with disabilities and to professionals who work with children. This assistance helps parents to participate more effectively with professionals in meeting the educational needs of children and youth with disabilities. The Parent Centers work to improve educational outcomes for children and youth with all disabilities (emotional, learning, mental, and physical).
